Phetchaburi

A province in Central Thailand, Phetchaburi is located 123 km. from Bangkok on the Gulf of Thailand. It is an old city with very long history, mentioned in the 1st stone inscription from the Sukhothai period. However, archaeological finds trace its existence back as far as the Ancient Khmer and Dvaravati periods. It used to be a border outpost town of a principality class in the Ayutthaya period, as well.

Phetchaburi covers an area of 6,255.138 sq.km. Its topography features undulating mountains in the West, with the Tenasserim Range forming a natural boundary between Thailand and Myanmar, and a coastal plain stretching to the seashore on the Gulf of Thailand in the East. There are 3 major rivers feeding the province; namely, the Phetchaburi, Bang Kloi, and Bang Tabun. Most of the province's population are farmers, earning their living from paddy farming, fruit orchards, Palmyra palm sugar production, animal raising, and fishery.

Phetchaburi is administratively divided into 8 districts; namely, Amphoe Mueang Phetchaburi, Amphoe Khao Yoi, Amphoe Nong Ya Plong, Amphoe Ban Laem, Amphoe Ban Lat, Amphoe Tha Yang, Amphoe Kaeng Krachan, and Amphoe Cha-am.

BOUNDARY

North	borders Amphoe Amphawa, Samut Songkhram province, and Amphoe Pak Tho, Ratchaburi province.
South	borders Amphoe Hua Hin, Prachuap Khiri Khan province.
East	borders the Gulf of Thailand.
West	borders the Union of Myanmar.

HOW TO GET THERE

By car, the nearest and most convenient route is taking Highway 35 (Thon Buri – Pak Tho Road) from Bangkok via Samut Sakhon, Samut Songkhram, and Amphoe Pak Tho. Then, turn into Highway 4 to arrive in Phetchaburi, a total distance of 123 km. Otherwise, follow Highway 4 from Bangkok via Nakhon Pathom and Ratchaburi to reach Phetchaburi, a total distance of 166 km.

By bus, from Bangkok, there are air-conditioned buses leaving the Bangkok Southern Bus Terminal on Borommaratchachonnani Road. For further details, please call Tel. 0 2894 6122. There is also a private–run bus service provided by Phetchaburi Tour, Tel. 0 2894 6011. Travellers may also take any regular bus running on the southern routes via Phetchaburi; such as, the Bangkok–Chumphon (second class), Bangkok–Hua Hin–Pran Buri, Tel. 0 2894 6057 and so on. From Bangkok, visitors may travel to other districts of the province on the Bangkok–Cha-am, Bangkok–Tha Yang, and Bangkok–Ban Laem routes, as well.

In addition, there are local buses from Phetchaburi to Hua Hin, Pran Buri, Prachuap Khiri Khan, Chumphon, and Ratchaburi.

By train, there are daily trains leaving Bangkok Railway Station (Hua Lamphong) to Phetchaburi and Cha-am. For more details, please contact the Travelling Service Unit at Tel. 1690, 0 2220 4334, or visit www.railway.co.th. There are also trains leaving the Thon Buri Railway Station (Bangkok Noi) daily. For further information, please call Tel. 0 2411 3102.

ATTRACTIONS

Amphoe Khao Yoi

is located at Soi Bang Khem Phattana 1, Tambon Bang Khem, 6 km. before the entrance to the Khao Yoi District Office on Highway 4 between km. 129-130. This is one of the province's oldest temples containing a teakwood ordination hall of a 7–chambered size. Outside around the hall, there are 21 panels of woodcarvings depicting the ten birth–stories of the Buddha or Jatakas in the East, Vessantara Jataka or the Great Birth on the side walls, and the Journey to the West in the West. The eastern gable features a woodcarving of a coin with King Rama IV's royal seal–the Great Crown; whereas the western one depicts a 1–Baht coin in the reign of King Rama V the Great and his country arms. The door panels boast woodcarvings with an intertwined design of master craftsmanship.

Tham Khao Yoi (ถ้ำเขาย้อย) is located to the east of Khao Yoi near the Khao Yoi District Office, some 22 km. before reaching Phetchaburi provincial town on Highway 4 between km. 136-137. Inside is enshrined an immense reclining Buddha image as well as several other Buddha images of various sizes and in different postures, similar to Tham Khao Luang and Wat Tham Khao Bandai It in Amphoe Mueang Phetchaburi. History has it that these images have long existed and were later restored by Phrakhru On of Wat Thai Talat. According to historical tales, when King Rama IV was still ordained and went on his Austere Practices, he came to stop for an insight development in front of Khao Yoi and moved to sit in meditation in Tham Khao Yoi for many nights.

Thai Song Dam or Lao Song Cultural Centre (ศูนย์วัฒนธรรมไทยทรงดำหรือลาวโซ่ง)

is located at Mu 5 Tambon Khao Yoi, approximately 1 km. beyond the Khao Yoi Intersection toward Phetchaburi provincial town, on Highway 4. Turn left at the entrance to Ban Wang School for 300 m. The Thai Song Dam or Lao Song is an ethnic minority whose origin was Dien Bien Phu in North Vietnam, bordering with Laos. They migrated to settle in Thailand over 200 years ago and have a unique culture. They wear black and have their own spoken and written languages. The Thai Song Dam people are skilled in weaving cloth and basketry. The majority of them live in Phetchaburi. In April every year, the Thai Song Dam Tradition will be held for their merriment in different villages on a rotary basis. The Cultural Centre exhibits the Lao Song way of life in the past for later generations to learn. It also puts on exhibition tools and utensils used in their daily life, models of their houses, original scripts, cloth weaving demonstration, and sales of souvenirs such as clothes, handbags, and ornaments. It is open daily during 8.30 a.m. – 5.00 p.m. Admission is free. Visitors coming in groups or wishing to enjoy folk performances like a ceremony to make propitiatory offerings to home spirits and other folk games and performance may contact

Tham Khao Yoi

Wat Ton Son

in advance with an extra charge. Accommodation within the Cultural Centre is available in the form of the Thai Song Dam Style. For further details, please contact the Thai Song Dam Cultural Centre, Khao Yoi Municipality, Tel. 0 3256 1200 or visit www.thaisongdamkhaoyoi.com

To get there: By bus, take a bus on the Bangkok–Phetchaburi or Bangkok – Prachuap Khiri Khan route. Get off at the Khao Yoi Intersection and take a motorcycle for another 2 km.

Amphoe Ban Laem

Mangrove Ecological Conservation and Study Centre Bang Tabun Witthaya School (ศูนย์อนุรักษ์และศึกษาระบบนิเวศน์ป่าชายเลน โรงเรียนบางตะบูนวิทยา) is located inside Bang Tabun Witthaya School on the way to Ao Bang Tabun. The mangrove forest here covers a total area of approximately 40 rai and is well-preserved to be in quite a perfect condition. The school had a partly wooden boardwalk and partly concrete walkway built to form a nature study route of about 150 m. long into the mangrove forest, where there is dense population of flora and fauna. Among them are Samae (Avicennia plants), Kongkang or mangroves (Rhizophora plants), Chakhram (Suaeda maritima), and crab-eating macaques, crawling fish, crabs, etc. In the rainy season, the gleams of fireflies can be seen. Interested persons may contact the Bang Tabun Witthaya School in advance at Tel. 0 3248 9174 or Achan Chomphunut at Tel. 08 9238 3837. A boat ride to enjoy the way of life along the Phetchaburi River and shoreline fishery is available, with a local youth guide provided.

Laem Leo (แหลมเหลว)

is located about 1 km. from Amphoe Ban Laem on the way from Ban Laem to Bang Tabun. It is where a fisherman's village is located, with a wooden bridge running past the village to seaside restaurants. The area is also home to a large herd of macaques that always come to be fed by passers-by.

is one of Ban Laem's major temples located on the Phetchaburi River. It serves as the community's centre for various cultural activities and houses the much revered Buddha image of "Luangpho Samrit". The temple also houses a statue of the Prince of Chumphon standing almost back to back with a life-like image of Luangpho Thuat. There is a high concrete bridge across the river in front of the temple, with a Thai style pavilion where the scenery of the fisherman's village and fleet of fishing boats can be admired. Around the temple, tall buildings were constructed for swallows to nest as an investment in the bird's nest business.

Wat Nai Klang (วัดในกลาง)

was built under royal instruction of King Taksin the Great in dedication to his mother who was a native of Ban Laem. This old temple is at least 200 years old and contains various structures of the late Ayutthaya period; such as, chedi, windowless ubosot with a single front door, monk's cells, preaching hall, belfry, etc. The temple also houses "Luangpho Sukhothai", a much revered Buddha image in the gesture of subduing Mara dating from the Sukhothai period. Among the distinctive architecture of Wat Nai Klang is a teakwood Sala Kan Parian or preaching hall which underwent restoration by means of dismantling and reconstructing. The building is believed to have formerly been a throne hall in the reign of King Thaisa of the Kingdom of Ayutthaya. Later, King Taksin the Great had it dismantled, taken from Ayutthaya, and reconstructed at Wat Nai Klang. The reconstruction followed ancient techniques, using mainly wooden bolts and partly Chinese nails to fasten all parts together. The preaching hall is supported by octagonal columns with brackets intricately carved into unique and graceful Naga heads to support the eaves. The brackets at this temple have become a prototype for other temples.

Wat Khao Takhrao (วัดเขาตะเครา)

is in Tambon Bang Khrok, 10 km. along Highway 3176 from Phetchaburi provincial town across the railway tracks near Phetchaburi Railway Station. A large entrance gate to the temple will be seen on the left. Turn left for another 3 km. This temple is where Luangpho Khao Tukhrao, a Buddha image in the gesture of subduing Mara measuring 72.5 cm. high and 53 cm. wide is enshrined. The hilltop image hall where the sacred Buddha image is housed is accessible by a cable car. According to history, Luangpho Khao Takhrao was one of the 3 brother Buddha images, in addition, to Luangpho Sothon in Chachoengsao province and Luangpho Ban Laem in Samut Songkhram province. Some texts even said there were 5 brother Buddha images which also include Luangpho Bang Phli Yai and Luangpho Wat Rai Khing in Nakhon Pathom. The story of this Buddha image began in the late Ayutthaya period when the people of Ban Laem, who later became the ancestors of the people of Samut Songkhram, fled the Burmese troops to settle at the Mae Klong Estuary. On a fishing trip one day, a fisherman from Ban Laem obtained with his fishing net 2 Buddha images; one standing holding an alms bowl and the other seated in the subduing Mara posture. The standing one was taken to be enshrined at Wat Ban Laem, currently known as Wat Phetchasamut, located in the heart of Samut Songkhram province. The other one was given to his relatives from Bang Tabun who took it to be housed at Wat Khao Takhrao, Amphoe Ban Laem, Phetchaburi province.

Laem Luang or Laem Phak Bia (แหลมหลวง หรือแหลมผักเบี้ย) is in Tambon Laem Phak Bia, 20 km. from Amphoe Mueang Phetchaburi along the same route to, but with a left turn slightly before reaching, Hat Chao Samran. It features a sandy cape stretching for 2 km. into the sea, and a good spot for viewing the sunrise as well as sunset. Visitors may ride a long-tail boat to the tip of the cape, taking approximately half an hour. Boat rental is Bt 350 with a capacity of 8-10 persons. Please contact the Laem Phak Bia Subdistrict Administration Organization, Tel. 0 3244 1209.

Mangrove Resources Development Station 6 (Phetchaburi) สถานีพัฒนาทรัพยากรป่าชายเลนที่ ๖ (เพชรบุรี)) is located in front of Wat Bang Khun Sai and attached to the Ministry of Natural Resources and Environment. It is responsible for the management of mangrove resources for conservation and restoration through community participation, protection against and suppression of intrusion of over 35,000 rai of the mangrove forest in Phetchaburi, as well as publicity of knowledge among the people in general in order to stimulate public awareness in preserving and sustaining the fertility of marine and coastal resources for their benefits. The Station provides ecotourism activities, as follows: Mangrove Forest Nature Trek provides information about the mangrove forest and coastal ecological system through nature interpretation signs and local youth guides. Visitors can admire the beauty of the mangrove forest along the route where coastal plants and animals as well as birds are to be seen; such as, crawling fish, fiddler crabs, common snapping shrimps, and many other coastal creatures. Mangrove Reforestation Activity may be joined by group visitors or families, with plant seedlings provided by the Station. The activity will be led by local youth guides upon donation, with a fee of only Bt 10 required for the cleaning water. Visitors who wish to stay overnight at Bang Khun Sai Fisherman's Village may contact the Station in advance.

Folk Fisherman's Way of Life can be experienced here as Bang Khun Sai is renowned as the country's largest source of natural cockles. Visitors can observe how the villagers collect cockles on kick-sliding boards designed out of folk wisdom. Interested visitors may ask to try the kick-sliding boards for a jovial experience. Also to be seen are long-tailed fishing boats that sail well on rather wet and slippery miry areas although a skillful driver is required.

To get there: By car, follow the Phetchaburi–Ban Laem Road and directional signs to Bang Khun Sai, a total distance of 15 km. from Phetchaburi. Visitors arriving by bus can connect with a Song Thaeo running from Phetchaburi to Wat Bang Khun Sai, which is next to the Station. For activities or homestay at Homestay Bang Khun Sai, please contact the Mangrove Resources Development Station 6 (Phetchaburi), Mu 10 Tambon Bang Khun Sai, Amphoe Ban Laem, Phetchaburi 76110, Tel. 0 3240 0826, Fax. 0 3240 0825.

Laem Luang or Laem Phak Bia

Bang Khun Sai (บางขุนไทร) is a small fisherman village by the sea located 12 km. from Phetchaburi provincial town along Highway 3178. The villagers earn their living by catching cockles, wedge shells, and undulated surf clams, using a sliding board along the muddy sand at low tide. Visitors wishing to view the shell catching or collect some shells themselves may board a raft (1 raft for 3 persons; availability depends on the tides). Please contact the Bang Khun Sai Subdistrict Administration Organization, Tel. 0 3250 1254.

Amphoe Mueang Phetchaburi

Phra Nakhon Khiri Historical Park or Khao Wang (อุทยานประวัติศาสตร์พระนครคีรี หรือเขาวัง)

is an ancient monument located on 3 large tops of a mountain, the highest one measuring 95 m. The mountain was formerly known among the locals as "Khao Samon". King Rama IV was pleased with the location and assigned Chaophraya Si Suriyawong (Chuang Bunnak), then Minister of Defence, to oversee the construction of a summer palace here. Upon completion in 1860, the king named the palace "Phra Nakhon Khiri", but the local people have preferred to call it "Khao Wang" or the palace mountain until present. Phra Nakhon Khiri comprises throne halls, royal residences, temples, and many other buildings; most of them are of the Western style, featuring a blend of the Chinese and neoclassical architecture. The mountaintop buildings are as follows:

The Eastern Top: On the slope of the hill is located Wat Maha Samanaram, an old temple from the Ayutthaya period. The temple contains an ordination hall with murals by Khrua In Khong on the four walls inside. The mountaintop is the location of Wat Phra Kaeo, a royal temple attached to Phra Nakhon Khiri Palace; similar to Wat Phra Si Rattana Satsadaram that is attached to the Grand Palace in Bangkok. Wat Phra Kaeo comprises a small ordination hall decorated with marble, Phra Phuttha Selachedi at the back, and a small belfry of a square shape with redented corners in the front.

The Middle Top: This is the location of Phra Phuttha Maha Chedi Chom Phet or Phrathat Chom Phet, measuring 40 m. high and housing the Buddha's relics inside. Various buildings on the other 2 tops as well as a panoramic view of Phetchaburi provincial town can be seen from this spot.

The Western Top: This is where the royal palace complex is located, which includes Phra Thinang Phet Phum Phairot, Phra Thinang Pramot Mahaisawan, Phra Thinang Wetchayan Wichian Prasat, Phra Thinang Ratchathammasapha, Ho Chatchawan Wiang Chai, Ho Phiman Phet Mahet, Phra Thinang Santhakhan Sathan, Ho Chatuwet Paritaphat, and Sala Thatsana Nakkhattaroek. There is also a garage, horse stable, pavilions of the entourage and guards, as well as kitchen. Surrounding the palace in the four directions are Thatarot Pong Pok Fort in the east, Wirunhok Borirak Fort in the south, Wirupak Pongkan Fort in the west, and Wetsuwan Raksa Fort in the north. Part of the palace on this western top has been allotted to be the Phra Nakhon Khiri National Museum where items of antiquity; such as, King Rama IV's and King Rama V the Great's royal regalia, bronze and brass sculptures used for throne halls' decorations, as well as Chinese, Japanese, and European porcelain are collected. The museum is open daily during 8.30 a.m.–4.00 p.m. Phra Nakhon Khiri Historical Park is open daily during 8.30 a.m.–4.30 p.m. The Historical Park is accessible on foot and by cable car–a round trip ticket costs Bt 70 for adults and Bt 10 for children (inclusive of museum admission). The ticket booth is open during 8.30 a.m.–3.30 p.m. For more information, please call Tel. 0 3242 5600.

Wat Phra Phutthasaiyat or Wat Phra Non (วัดพระพุทธไสยาสน์ หรือวัดพระนอน) is an old temple located on Khiri Ratthaya Road, Tambon Khlong Krachaeng. When the temple was constructed is unknown; but it is believed to have existed since the Ayutthaya period, as evident from the large image of Phra Phutthasaiyat–the Reclining Buddha–of the Ayutthayan style. Measuring approximately 43 metres long, the gilded stucco image is hollow inside, with gold painting of auspicious items on the soles, including a Prasat, Brahma God, Chatra umbrella, crown, alms bowl, water container, conch-shell, sword, elephant, fish, golden tray, palm–leaf fan, peacock-feather fan, and lotus. This is one of Thailand's largest reclining Buddha images. It is lying on the right side on a 1-m. high base, formerly in the open. Later, King Rama IV had a wihan constructed to shelter it. The wihan is located on the slope of the mountain, about 15 m. above the ground. The temple also contains other interesting buildings; such as Wihan Phra Phutthachai where there are tempera murals depicting the Lord Buddha and major disciples, as well as a self–sculpted image of Phrakhru Suchat Methachan, the Abbot. There is Wihan Noi housing an old bejewelled Buddha image of the Ayutthayan style similar to the principal Buddha image at Wat Na Phra Men in Phra Nakhon Si Ayutthaya, and several stone Buddha images of the Ayutthayan art as apparent from the line around the lips. There is also a scripture hall – Ho Trai – formerly located in the middle of the pond at the back of the temple, but relocated on the ground near the monk's residential complex. It features a 2–storeyed teakwood building with an open basement and 2–tiered roof with a dormer porch. For further details, please contact Tel. 08 1297 2152.

Phra Nakhon Khiri Historical Park or Khao Wang

Wat Khao Bandai It (วัดเขาบันไดอิฐ) is approximately 2 km. from Khao Wang along Highway 4, with a right turn into Highway 3171. The temple was built in the Ayutthaya period on a mountain of 121 m. high, and formerly known as a famous centre of meditation and insight development. Phrachao Suea, a king in the Ayutthaya period, once came to study here. In the past, during the period when Luangpho Daeng was the abbot, the temple was renowned for its incantation and attracted a large number of people who came to pay respect. Wat Khao Bandai It is also praised for the beauty of its stucco of master craftsmanship on the ordination hall's gables. There are also many caves to be visited within the temple's precincts. The first one is "Tham Prathun" where there are Buddha images along the cave walls. Located deeper is "Tham Phrachao Suea" which derived its name from a story that when Phrachao Suea came to see his master, Achan Saeng, the king had a standing Buddha image in the gesture of stopping the flood enshrined here. Further southward is "Tham Phra Phutthasaiyat" where there is a large reclining Buddha image and, in the corner of the cave, an old wooden vaulted covering of a boat which was presented to Achan Saeng by Phrachao Suea. In addition to these, there are Tham Phra Athit, Tham Phra Chan, Tham Sawang Arom, Tham Chang Phueak, and Tham Duke–named after Duke Johann Alberkt, Regent of Braunschweig, Germany, who once visited Phetchaburi and this cave.

Tham Khao Luang (ถ้ำเขาหลวง) is situated on top of Khao Luang, some 5 km. from Khao Wang. Khao Luang is a small mountain of 92 m. high. From the foot of the mountain, there are flights of concrete steps leading to the entrance down to the cave where there are beautiful stalagmites and stalactites, and a chimney through which a ray of sunlight shines and lightens up the cave. Tham Khao Luang is regarded as the largest and most important cave of Phetchaburi. It is where King Rama IV's royal Buddha image, built under the instruction of King Rama V the Great in dedication to his father who used to visit and be pleased with this cave, is enshrined. The king also had several old Buddha images here restored and stone steps constructed down into the cave.

Tham Khao Luang

Tham Khao Luang comprises 5 chambers containing a replica of the Buddha's footprint in Saraburi constructed by King Rama IV, 14-metres long reclining Buddha image, 3 large wooden Buddha images and replica of a chedi at Wat Khao Bandai It. On the right near the entrance to the foot of the Khao Luang, there is a large attractive temple known among the locals as "Wat Tham Klaep". Its current name is "Wat Bun Thawi". Its large study hall was designed and constructed by the abbot who is also a craftsman. Its ordination hall's door panels are made from intricately carved wood. According to legend, the entrance of Tham Klaep in this temple was a gateway to Mueang Laplae, a mysterious town with only female inhabitants. However, this is only a legend that has been told by the people of Phetchaburi for hundreds of years.

Wat Mahathat Worawihan (วัดมหาธาตุวรวิหาร) is situated on the Phetchaburi River, approximately 500 m. from the City Hall. The temple contains a 5–tower principal Prang built in the ancient Khmer style. Each of the Prang towers was built from laterite. The large principal tower is 42 m. high and houses the Lord Buddha's relics. Other buildings of interest include Phra Ubosot, Wihan Luang, and various pavilions that are all decorated with stucco reliefs of the Mueang Phet School, which are beautiful and unique. The wihan also houses sacred Buddha images much revered by the people of Phetchaburi; namely, Luangpho Wat Mahathat, Luangpho Ban Laem, and Luangpho Wat Khao Takhrao. For further details, please contact Tel. 0 3242 5326.

Wat Yai Suwannaram (วัดใหญ่สุวรรณาราม) is located on Phong Suriya Road, about 1 km. from the City Hall. It was built in the Ayutthaya period and underwent restoration in the reign of King Rama V the Great. The temple houses Sala Kan Parian–a study hall–built entirely of teakwood, which Phrachao Suea of the Kingdom of Ayutthaya presented to the Supreme Patriarch who was a Phetchaburi citizen. The hall is decorated with intricate woodcarvings, especially the door panels with a gilded scroll design. It also houses a spired preaching pulpit made of gilded carved wood into a very fine and perfect work of art. The ordination hall features murals of the congregation of angels dating about 300 years. For further details, please call Tel. 0 3241 2714.

Wat Kamphaeng Laeng (วัดกำแพงแลง)

is located on Phra Song Road, some 2 km. from the City Hall. It was formerly a Khmer sanctuary in Hinduism, but adapted into a Buddhist temple in the Mahayana Sect and Theravada Sect, respectively. Originally, it comprised 5 laterite prang towers; only 4 of them remain at present. It is assumed that each tower was dedicated to and housed an image of a Hindu god; such as, Shiva, Visnu, Brahma, and Uma. This is based on the fact that an image of Goddess Uma or Parvati was discovered in a tumbled tower in 1956. When it was adapted to become a Buddhist temple, an ordination hall was constructed. However, the original surroundings were slightly changed as evident from the remaining laterite wall.

Hat Chao Samran (หาดเจ้าสำราญ)

has been a beach of historical importance since ancient times. History has it that King Naresuan the Great once visited this place together with his brother, King Ekathotsarot. They were very pleased with the scenic beauty of the beach and spent many days here. Thus came the name of the beach "Hat Chao Samran" meaning the contented kings' beach. Hat Chao Samran reached the peak of its glory in the reign of King Rama VI when it became more famous than any other beaches in the country at that time. King Rama VI had a royal residence constructed by the beach and named it "Phra Tamnak Hat Chao Samran". The construction was completed in 1918 and later dismantled to be reconstructed in Amphoe Cha-am and became known as "Phra Ratchaniwet Mrigadayavan" or "Mrigadayavan Palace". Accommodation and food shops are available by the beach.

To get there: The beach is 15 km. from the Mueang Phetchaburi Market on Highway 3177, some 13 km. beyond Rajabhat University Phetchaburi. Visitors travelling by bus may connect to a Song Thaeo that runs on the Mueang Phetchaburi–Hat Chao Samran route. The Song Thaeo will leave its parking area near the clock tower and Krung Thai Bank on Wat Tho Road during 7.30 a.m.–6.15 p.m.

Phra Ram Ratchaniwet or Ban Puen Palace (พระรามราชนิเวศน์ หรือพระราชวังบ้านปืน) is located in Tambon Ban Mo and constructed under the royal instruction of King Rama V the Great, using his personal funds, to be a palace for the rainy season. He instructed to purchase pieces of land from the people and had Admiral H.R.H. Prince Boriphat of Nakhon Sawan and H.R.H. Prince Damrong Rajanubhab supervise the construction. The palace is in the European architecture designed by Mr. Karl DÖhring, a German architect. The construction began in 1909 and was finished in 1916 in the reign of King Rama VI. The palace was previously named Phra Thinang Son Phet Prasat and renamed Phra Ram Ratchaniwet in 1918 to serve as a reception hall for state visitors. Later, King Rama VII turned it into the location of the Boy Scouts Commanding School, Agricultural Teachers Training School, and Subdistrict Elementary School.

Phra Ram Ratchaniwet is open daily during 8.00 a.m.–4.00 p.m. A ticket costs 50 baht. Visitors travelling in a group and requiring a guide may write to the Commanding Officer of the Phetchaburi Military District, Fort Ram Ratchaniwet, Amphoe Mueang Phetchaburi 76000, Tel. 0 3242 8506–10 ext. 259.

Amphoe Nong Ya Plong

Nong Ya Plong Hot Spring (น้ำพุร้อนหนองหญ้าปล้อง) is located in Tambon Ban Nam Klat Ngoen and features a natural hot spring with a temperature of approximately 49 degrees Celsius. Its surrounding area has been developed and managed by the local community. Mineral bathrooms, leg-soaking rooms, and health massage are provided, as well as food shops. From the parking area, the hot spring's origin is within a walking distance of 400 m.

To get there: Take Highway 4 (Phetchakasem Road) and, at Km. 148-149, turn toward Nong Ya Plong and follow the direction signs for about 32 km. to the hot spring. The asphalt road has directional signs along the way with fine scenery of paddy fields, undulating hills, and a Karen village. In addition, there are several other tourist attractions in the nearby area; such as, Namtok Mae Kradang La, which will require a 4-wheel drive vehicle to access for a distance of 8 km., with another 1–km. walk.

Amphoe Ban Lat

Tham Rong Community (ชุมชนถ้ำรงค์) is a gathering of the villagers of Tambon Tham Rong in wishing to preserve the original way of life of Phetchaburi. Local occupations like collecting toddy palm sap, simmering sugar from the toddy palm sap, cooking and making desserts from toddy palm fruits, can be observed and orchards of varieties of rose apple can be visited on appointment. For further details, please contact the Tham Rong Subdistrict Administration Organization at Tel. 0 3249 1467.

To get there: Follow Phetchakasem Road and turn toward Wat Tham Rong between Km. 176-177.

Amphoe Tha Yang

Hat Puek Tian (หาดปึกเตียน) is located in Tambon Puek Tian, some 7 km. southward from Hat Chao Samran. Visitors may take Phetchakasem Road to Amphoe Tha Yang and turn left at the Khlong Chonlaprathan Sai 2 Junction for approximately 15 km. Hat Puek Tian is a clean white sandy beach where swimming is available. In the sea, there are sculptures of main characters from a famous piece of Thai literature; namely, Phra Aphaimani–the hero, Phisuea Samut–the female giant, Sutsakhon–Phra Aphaimani's son, and Ma Nin Mangkon–a half-horse half-dragon creature with onyx scales. There is also the shrine of Kuan Yin-Goddess of Mercy-and Ko Tao, as well as accommodation, food shop, and souvenir shops.

Phra Ram Ratchaniwet or Ban Puen Palace

Amphoe Cha-am

Khao Nang Phanthurat Forest Park

(วนอุทยานเขานางพันธุรัต)

is located at Ban Khao Mai Nuan, Tambon Khao Yai, covering a total area of approximately 1,562 rai. It was established as a forest park on 25 February, 1999, in response to the royal iniatives of Their Majesties the King and the Queen, who would like the area of Khao Nang Phanthurat to be conserved as a national heritage site for later generations to learn about the legend of Nang Phanthurat, a female character in a famous piece of Thai literature: Sang Thong. According to legend, Nang Phanthurat, a giant, took Phra Sang as her adopted son; she and her followers appeared as humans in disguise. One day, Phra Sang clandestinely entered a restricted area, dipped himself into a gold well, put on a negrito costume to hide his gold–plated body, took a magical object, and flew away. Phanthurat, upon her return, could not find Phra Sang and went searching for him. She unsuccessfully pleaded him to return with her and died from pent-up sorrow. Phetchaburi's legend has it that, when

Hat Cha-am

Phanthurat died, Phra Sang held a cremation for her and her corpse turned into a mountain known among the locals as 'Khao Nang Non' or 'Khao Nang Phanthurat'.

The topography of the forest park features limestone mountains surrounded by mixed deciduous forest and dry evergreen forest. Lying in the north-south direction, the beauty of the immense mountains can be seen from the highway. The range looks very much like a sleeping female giant (Nang Phanthurat). To the south, there is a so-called Kot Nang Phanthurat or Phanthurat's urn. There are also natural sculptures related to the Sang Thong legend. A nature trail of 3.5 km. long has been provided, with interesting spots along the route; namely, Yot Men, Krachok Nang Phanthurat, Lan Kueak Kaeo, Bo Chup Tua Phra Sang, as well as bird-watching site, viewpoint, giant banyan tree at Hup Wang Ruea, and stalactites in the forms of a large footed tray in Tham Mayom, the Great Wall, etc. Moreover, the Forest Park contains a historical site known as Boran Sathan Thung Setthi, an ancient monument located at the foot to the east of Khao Chom Prasat. It features remains of a large brick and stucco chedi with clay mortar, where stucco reliefs and artefacts were unearthed. According to the finds, Boran Sathan Thung Setthi is believed to have been constructed in the Dvaravati period (around the 7^{th} – 11^{th} century). There is a Tourist Service Centre and campsite available. For further details, please contact Tel. 0 3243 3662, 08 9915 2619, 08 9922 2950.

To get there: From Phetchaburi provincial town, follow Phetchakasem Road (the Phetchaburi–Cha-am route) and turn left between Km. 197-198 (about 1 km. beyond the new outlet plant and before reaching the Nikhom Intersection). Head toward Wat Pa Sutthikhun for some 4 km.

Hup Kaphong or Hup Kaphong Royal Project (ทุบกะพง หรือโครงการพระราชประสงค์ทุบกะพง) is situated in Tambon Khao Yai and Tambon Cha-am, Amphoe Cha-am. It was a project launched in 1964 under the royal initiation of His Majesty the King, in wishing to provide assistance to poor vegetable farmers who possessed no land. He, therefore, had the National Social and Economic Development Board (NESDB) procure a piece of land in the areas of Phetchaburi and Prachuap Khiri Khan provinces to be allocated to the farmers in trouble. The project was provided assistance by Israel who dispatched a delegation of rural development experts in various fields under the Thai-Israeli Programme for Hup Kapong Rural Development, which was implemented during 19 August, 1966–18 August, 1971. The land in Hup Kaphong was selected, its soil surveyed and analyzed, before being allotted to farmers. An irrigation system was provided, with the Agricultural Experiment and Demonstration Centre undertaking the improvement and study of the growing of fruit trees in accordance with the market's demand, giving suggestions to farmers on the technical know-how of plant growing, and establishment of the Hup Kaphong Agricultural Cooperatives. The farmers were encouraged to process their agricultural produce and make hand-woven products from sisal fibre and vetiver. Products available include bags, hats, shoes, baskets, dehydrated fruits, etc. The Hup Kaphong Sisal Fibre Arts and Crafts Centre is open daily except for Tuesday during 9.00 a.m.–5.00 p.m. Other places of interest within the Project include:

Hup Kaphong Royal Project Learning Centre (ศูนย์การเรียนรู้โครงการตามพระราชประสงค์ทุบกะพง) is located in Tambon Khao Yai and has been intended to be a source of learning for interested people to study and apply the gained knowledge for their occupations. It features an exhibition centre inside the Khum Klao Building, exhibiting various royally-initiated projects, photographs from the past, model of the first houses of farmers who came to settle at Hup Kaphong, agricultural machinery, and Chaipattana aerator. A visit to the villagers' demonstrative plantations is also available. This is the first model cooperatives village where there is asparagus planting, sisal product making, dairy farming, etc. It is open Monday-Saturday during 8.30 a.m.–4.30 p.m. closed on Sunday. For a visit in a group, please contact in writing in advance. A seminar / meeting room and accommodation is available. For further details, please call Tel. 0 3247 1543, 0 3247 1100.

To get there: It is about 4 km. on Highway 3203, with a right turn into an asphalt road for another 6 km. between Km. 201-202.

Hat Cha-am (หาดชะอำ) is located 41 km. from Phetchaburi provincial town, with a left turn for 2 km. to reach the beach. It is Phetchaburi's scenic and famous beach. In former times, Cha-am was just a sub-district dependent to Amphoe Nong Chok. After Hua Hin in Prachuap Khiri Khan became renowned, all seaside plots of land there were occupied. Therefore, noblemen at that time, led by Prince Narathip Praphanphong, tried to look for a new place for relaxation and discovered that Cha-am was not second to Hua Hin in its beauty. Cha-am has become known ever since and undergone phases of development and upgrading to become a district at present. The State Railway of Thailand operates a special tour train on the Bangkok–Cha-am route every Saturday, Sunday, and national holidays. For more details, please contact the Travelling Service Unit at Tel. 0 2225 6964.

King Naresuan the Great Monument

(พระบรมราชานุสาวรีย์สมเด็จพระนเรศวรมหาราช)

is located by the sea to the north of Hat Cha-am. It features the king holding a sword and looking out to the sea. This monument was built to commemorate his visit to southern outpost towns with an overnight here at Hat Cha-am.

Wat Neranchara: Wat Nerancharaaram (วัดเนรัญชราราม) is a seaside temple located north of Hat Cha-am. The temple was named Nerancharaaram to rhyme with the name of Mrigadayavan Palace, which was built under royal instruction of King Rama VI, after the Mrigadaya or Deer Park and Neranjara River mentioned in the Life of the Lord Buddha. Places of interest within the temple include an Indian-style ordinational hall or Ubosot which is rare in Thailand. It was constructed in 1834 and houses Luangpho Thong, the principal Buddha image built in 1935 and much revered by the villagers. On an open ground, there is a white stucco image of the Buddha sitting with six hands closing the 9 sense-doors; namely, 2 eyes, 2 nostrils, 2 ears, 1 mouth, 1 anus, and 1 penis. This uniquely distinctive image was built in 1984 and conveys a Dharmic paradox, suggesting omission of defilements by closing their entrance to and exit from the mind. There is also a cruciform building containing a brass footprint of the Lord Buddha cast in 1948 and a life-like image of Phrakhru Sunthonwirot (Sa-nguan Chakharo), an ex-abbot who brought prosperity to the temple and community where it is located throughout a long period of 52 years.

Cha-am Magic Show (ชะอำเมจิกโชว์)

is situated on Phetchakasem Road, 1 km. beyond Cha-am Intersection, Tambon Cha-am. The magic show in the earthen theatre at 8.00 p.m. takes approximately 1½ hours. Admission is Bt 500 for adults and Bt 200 for children. For more information, call Tel. 08 1696 6921, 08 3808 1094.

Somdej Phra Srinagarindra Park (สวนสมเด็จพระศรีนครินทราบรมราชชนนี) is located in Tambon Sam Phraya at Km. 214-215 on Phetchakasem Road, covering a total area of 340 rai. It was granted an Award of Excellence in the category of Agricultural Tourist Attractions at the Thailand Tourism Awards 2002. It is operated by the Chaipattana Foundation with an aim to study the appropriate form of mixed cultivation for the local environment that once suffered deforestation and has been restored to its fertile condition. This has been done by providing a source of water side by side with planting. The result of successful experiments will then be transferred to farmers to enhance sustainable agriculture. There are several spots of interest for the public to visit; namely, mixed cultivation, New Theory farming, toxic free cultivation, organic cultivation, forest farming, use of vetiver grass in the planting system, use of herbal plants, etc. There is also a collection of plants with fragrant flowers, including 300 species of perennial, bushy, creeping and medicinal ones. Traditional Thai massage is available. It is open daily. (A group visit requiring a guide should contact in advance. Meals and accommodation can be provided.) Please contact the Somdej Phra Srinagarindra Park, Chaipattana Foundation, 77 Mu 6, Tambon Sam Phraya, Amphoe Cha-am, Phetchaburi 76120, Tel./Fax. 0 3259 3100.

Phra Ratchaniwet Mrigadayavan

Phra Ratchaniwet Mrigadayavan (พระราชนิเวศน์มฤคทายวัน) is located inside Fort Phra Ram Hok, Tambon Huai Sai Nuea, 8 km. from Cha-am Beach, between Km. 216–217. King Vajiravudh or King Rama VI had Phra Tamnak Hat Chao Samran demolished to be reconstructed here in 1923. The complex features 3 main connected golden teakwood halls of the mixed Thai and European architecture built on stilts. The right wing accommodated the female quarters and the left wing accommodated the male quarters. Phra Thinang Samut Phiman was the living quarters of Queen Intharasaksachi whereas Phra Thinang Phisan Sakhon, surrounded by buildings for the male entourage, served as the living quarters for the king. A long balcony runs from the royal hall to the sea where the king went swimming, and Phra Thinang Samoson Sewakamat is an open hall with 2 storeys that once accommodated meetings on various occasions and 2 theatrical performances; namely, Phra Ruang and Wiwa Phra Samut. In 1941, Chaophraya Ram Rakhop had a statue of King Vajiravudh cast and enshrined in the middle of the open hall, in memory to the king, and also held an annual merit–making ceremony on 25 November to mark his passsing away. Phra Ratchaniwet Mrigadayavan is open during 8.00 a.m.–4.00 p.m. on weekdays except for Wednesday, and 8.30 a.m.–4.00 p.m. on weekends and public holidays. Admission is Bt 30. For a group visit, please contact in writing to the Commander of the Border Patrol Police Training Centre, Fort Phra Ram Hok, Amphoe Cha-am, Phetchaburi, Tel. 0 3250 8039.

Kaeng Krachan National Park

Sirindhorn International Environment Park (อุทยานสิ่งแวดล้อมนานาชาติสิรินธร) is located within the precincts of Fort Phra Ram Hok, Tambon Cha-am on Phetchakasem Road. It is accessible by the same route as Phra Ratchaniwet Mrigadayavan. It was established in honour of Her Royal Highness Princess Maha Chakri Sirindhorn on her 48th birthday anniversary in 2005, with an aim to revive as well as develop the environment of the mangrove forest, beach forest, and mixed deciduous forest that provide a natural habitat for various kinds of fauna in the area back into its original fertility. It was also intended to be a centre of knowledge, publicity, and training of an international standard on the conservation of energy, natural resources and environment, as well as promotion of ecotourism in order to stimulate and implant public awareness in the significance of the conservation of energy and environment for sustainable development. The knowledge and experience gained can be applied in daily life. Spots of interest within the Park include:

Energy for Environment Centre (ศูนย์พลังงานเพื่อสิ่งแวดล้อม) publicizes knowledge about energy and conservation of energy and the environment through a "Two Ways Communication" exhibition, which is divided into 8 stations. Each station features a different form of presentation; such as, model, replica, demonstration, and try-out. There are also other facilities like a learning centre with several learning media including printed and digital ones, small meeting room of 30-40 seats and conference hall of 200-300 seats, restaurant, souvenir shop, etc.

Energy and Environmental Conservation Camp and International Environment Camp (ค่ายการอนุรักษ์พลังงานและสิ่งแวดล้อม และค่ายสิ่งแวดล้อมนานาชาติ) feature activity camps for various organizations coming in groups and interested people who wish to learn about the conservation of energy, natural resources, environment and Thai wisdom. Accommodation is available in the forms of bungalow and dormitory, with an activity ground. The Park also provides a natural study room for visitors to study mangrove forest, beach and land forest, degraded soil improvement, and resolution for eroded shores, bird watching tower, demonstration of water pumping using wind turbines and solar cells, etc. Visiting groups should contact in advance at the Sirindhorn International Environment Park Foundation under Royal Patronage of H.R.H. Princess Maha Chakri Sirindhorn, Tel. 0 3250 8396, 0 3250 8352, or visit www.sirindhornpark.or.th. (Please contact in advance)

Huai Sai Development Study Centre under Royal Initiatives (ศูนย์ศึกษาการพัฒนาห้วยทรายอันเนื่องมาจากพระราชดำริ) is located in Tambon Sam Phraya, approximately 15 km. south of Cha-am. The area used to be a fertile forest that was a natural habitat of "Nuea Sai" or Indochinese Hog Deer, hence, the name "Huai Sai". Later, there was extensive deforestation for cultivation by the people, which led to unseasonal and less amount of rainfall. The area resulted in drought and unfertilized soil that created unbalanced nature. Upon reflection that should the situation prolong, the area would eventually turn into a desert, His Majesty the King had the Centre established in 1983, with the intention to preserve as well as restore the forest and environment to its former condition. Other objectives include for it to be a study centre for the development of a multi-purpose forest, with the aim to obtain an appropriate form of agricultural development that coincides with reforestation, forest preservation, and improvement of the source of water for agriculture and reforestation. The Centre also focuses on the locals to gain benefits from forest products, be educated on how to do right form of farming and take part in reforestation to assure that the deforestation would never re-occur. The operationarea is part of the Mrigadayavan Palace, covering an area of approximately 15,880 rai. For more information, please call Tel. 0 3259 3252–3.

Huai Sai Wildlife Breeding and Extension Centre (ศูนย์เพาะเลี้ยงและขยายพันธุ์สัตว์ป่าห้วยทราย) is 14 km. from Cha-am near Km. 220. Turn right toward the same direction as Phetchaburi Agricultural College for some 4 km. It is a conservation and propagation centre of various kinds of wildlife in shady surroundings. There are several wild animals here; such as, porcupine, binturong, brow-antlered deer or Eld's deer, deer, hog deer, peacock, Nicobar pigeon, silver pheasant, etc. It is open daily during 8.00 a.m.–4.30 p.m. Admission is free. For further information, please call Tel. 0 3259 3252.

Amphoe Kaeng Krachan

Kuan Yin Inter-Religious Park (อุทยานศาสนาพระโพธิสัตว์กวนอิม)
covers a total area of approximately 180 rai in Tambon Phu Sawan. It features the Land of Mahanaya–Taoism, Land of Buddhism, Land of Noble Monks, and sculptures of Hindu gods and Kuan Yin. One interesting item is the world's largest 1,000-handed, 1,000-eyed Kuan Yin carved out of camphor wood from China. Visitors can make a tour on foot and stop to pay respect at some spots. Otherwise, take a small train at Bt 30 / person. Accommodation in the back-to-the-future style is available. For more details, please call Tel. 08 9509 3832. The Park is open daily during 8.00 a.m.–6.00 p.m. For further information, please contact the Park at Tel. 0 3242 2048-9, or visit www.religiouspark.org, www.2539.org.

Kaeng Krachan National Park (อุทยานแห่งชาติแก่งกระจาน)
is Thailand's largest national park, covering a total area of up to 2,915 sq.km. or 1.8 million rai. It was proclaimed a national park on 12 June, 1981, enveloping the lake and forested area above the Kaeng Krachan Dam, which is the home of the headwaters of many rivers. Most of the park's area are undulating mountains in the Tenasserim Range covered with moist evergreen forest. The Park's highest peak is Ngayanni Kyauk Taung on the Thailand–Myanmar border, measuring 1,513 metres high; and the next highest peak is Phanoen Thung, which is

Khao Phanoen Thung

1,207 m. high above sea level. From the ridge of Kaeng Krachan Dam, there is a road running to the left for 3 km. to the Park's headquarters. Interesting Attractions within the National Park:

The Lak (ทะเลสาบ) covers an area of approximately 45 sq. km. and is dotted with many islands. Cruising in the lake for relaxation or angling is available. For boat rental, please contact food shops or boat clubs located near the national park's headquarters.

Khao Phanoen Thung (เขาพะเนินทุ่ง) is the Park's highest peak within Thai territory located 50 km. from the Park's headquarters. It features the scenic beauty of a high mountain with a vast stretch of savannah located at 960 metres above sea level, surrounded by hill evergreen forest that serves as a natural habitat for a large number of fauna. From the top of the mountain, a sea of mist can be seen from the late rainy season to early winter. It takes 2 days to get to the peak, with an overnight on the way. Visitors may request for a guide from the Park but have to prepare their own food, tents, and camping gear.

Phanoen Thung Camp or Km. 30 (พะเนินทุ่งแคมป์ หรือ กม.๓๐) is a scenic viewpoint where the morning sea of mist can be admired and camping is allowed. A high-power vehicle will be needed to get there. A chartered pick-up truck is available in the Park's headquarters' area. As the road is rather narrow, the up and down times have been scheduled. The up time is during 5.30–7.30 a.m. in the morning, and 1.00–3.00 p.m. in the afternoon. The down time is during 9.00 a.m.–10.00 a.m., and 4.00–5.00 p.m. in the afternoon. Visitors wishing to get up Khao Phanoen Thung have to contact the Tourist Service Centre to apply for a pass, with the following fees: Bt 20 for adults, Bt 10 for children, Bt 30 for 4-wheeled vehicles, Bt 40 for pick-up trucks, Bt 100 for vans, and Bt 70-80 for vehicles with more than 4 wheels. Visitors going up Khao Phanoen Thung at 5.00 a.m. are required to apply for a pass 1 day in advance.

Namtok Tho Thip (น้ำตกทอทิพย์) is situated 15 km. from Khao Phanoen Thung. It is accessible by car, with another 4–km. trekking to reach the waterfall. Of all its 9 beautiful tiers, the 5th one is the most breathtaking. It is surrounded by shady trees. Travelling to a tourist attraction located deep in the forest should be done following the official's advice and with a guide, and using a high-power vehicle due to the steep route. The bird–butterfly watching route will start from Km. 0 near the Khao Sam Yot Checkpoint to Km. 18. Butterflies can be seen on both sides along the route or at salt licks between Km. 10-12 whereas birds can be found near the Huai Sam Yot Reservoir, not far beyond the checkpoint, where various species of waterfowls inhabit. The nature study trail starts from Km. 18 and the Park's endemic bird species, Ratchet-tailed treepie, can be noticed between Km. 18-27. It can be seen only here in Thailand.

Camp Ban Krang (แคมป์บ้านกร่าง) is a campsite for bird and butterfly watchers where there is a pleasantly cool climate. Located at Km. 15, it offers a nature trail through mixed deciduous forest and dry evergreen forest. Frequented flora include Takhian Thong (iron wood–Hopea odorata), Yang (Dipterocarpus alatus), Makha Mong (Afzelia xylocarpa), Kritsana(eagle wood–Aquilaria crassna), and plants of a moist forest including ferns, Krathon Ruesi (Sapria himalayana), Hanuman, and rattan, all growing in abundance. There is also a lot of fauna; such as, wild elephant, gaur, banteng, barking deer, deer, bear, and reserved wildlife including Sumatran serow, Fea's barking deer, tapir, and marbled cat. More than 150 species of butterflies here are worth studying, especially in the dry season when flocks of them gather at the salt licks. During February–June, many kinds of birds can be seen building their nests, laying eggs, and feeding chicks; such as, great pied hornbill and great Indian hornbill which represent an indicator of a fertile evergreen forest.Interesting Attractions around the Ban Krang Area:

Namtok Pran Buri (น้ำตกปราณบุรี) is a small 5-tiered waterfall located some 7 km. from the Park's Ranger Station Ko Cho 4.

Namtok Mae Saliang (น้ำตกแม่สะเลียง) is a small 3-tiered waterfall that takes 3 days and 2 nights for round-trip trekking. It is surrounded by a verdant and shady forest.

Tham Hua Chang (ถ้ำหัวช้าง) is located 1 km. to the east of the Park's Ranger Station Ko Cho 4. It is accessible by a 200-m. walk and features a limestone cave with stalagmites and stalactites that look like an elephant's skull.

Tham Khao Pakarang (ถ้ำเขาปะการัง) is 3 km. to the southeast of the Ranger Station Ko Cho 4 and features beautiful stalagmites and stalactites.

Khao Pakarang (เขาปะการัง) is a bluish-grey limestone mountain with a cliff overlooking picturesque scenery. It is covered with verdant green forest and comprises undulating hills.

Kaeng Krachan National Park provides accommodation for visitors, as well as camping areas near the lake, Khao Phanoen Thung, and Camp Ban Krang. A tent for rent is available. For reservation of accommodation, please contact the Department of National Park, Wildlife and Flora, Tel. 0 2562 0760. Further information may be obtained from the Kaeng Krachan Tourist Service Centre, Tel. 0 3245 9293.

Kaeng Krachan Dam

To get there:

By car: From Bangkok, take Highway 35 to Amphoe Pak Tho, Ratchaburi province. Turn into Highway 4 via the intersection to Phetchaburi provincial town until reaching the Tha Yang Intersection. Turn right to Amphoe Tha Yang and follow the Liap Khlong Chonlaprathan or Irrigation Canal Road. Continue on Highway 3499 for some 30 km. to reach Amphoe Kaeng Krachan. The Park's headquarters is another 4 km. from the entrance.

By bus: Take the Bangkok–Tha Yang bus and get off at the Tha Yang Market. Then, connect to a Song Thaeo to get to the Kaeng Krachan Market and followed by a local taxi or motorcycle for another 4 km. to reach the Park's headquarters.

Kaeng Krachan Dam (เขื่อนแก่งกระจาน) features an earthen dam across the Phetchaburi River. The crest of the dam is 760 m. long, 8 m. wide, and 58 m. high. The widest part of the base measures 280 m. It was completed in 1966 and has become a large freshwater lake ideal for holiday–making and relaxation.

To get there: it is 53 km. from Phetchaburi provincial town and 3 km. from Kaeng Krachan National Park, and accessible by the same route as the Kaeng Krachan National Park.

EVENTS AND FESTIVALS

Phra Nakhon Khiri – Mueang Phet Fair

(งานพระนครคีรี—เมืองเพชร) is held annually on the first Saturday of February in order to commemorate the royal benevolence of former kings in the Royal House of Chakri; namely, King Rama IV, King Rama V the Great, and King Rama VI, toward the people of Phetchaburi. The Fair is also aimed for the revival as well as conservation of the splendid local arts and culture.

Thai Song Dam Tradition (งานประเพณีไทยทรงดำ) features a merit-making ceremony of the Lao Song or Thai Song Dam minority in Amphoe Khao Yoi. There will be tribal and authentic cooking by the Thai Song Dam people who are clad in their rarely-seen traditional costume. The event is held annually around April.

Khao Ho Kariang Tradition (งานประเพณีข้าวห่อกะเหรี่ยง) features the culture and lifestyle of the Karen people who live in Amphoe Nong Ya Plong and Amphoe Kaeng Krachan. It is held annually on the 14^{th} day of the waxing moon of the 9^{th} lunar month.

LOCAL PRODUCTS AND SOUVENIRS

Phetchaburi is renowned for its rich assortment of Thai sweets: such as Khanom Mo Kaeng, Khao Kriap, Thong Yot, Foi Thong, preserved fruits, Kalamae (caramel), etc. They are available in town as well as on Phetchakasem Road near Khao Wang. One of the province's famous savoury dishes is Khao Chae–rice soaked in cold and scented water eaten with a number of side dishes, which sells well in summer. The original shop that sells Khao Chae is located at the Sapsin Market and open during 9.00 a.m.–3.00 p.m. The province also boasts several kinds of fruit; among them are the Phet variety of rose apple (available during January–May), pineapple, santol, cantaloupe, etc.

There are also products from the palmyra palm trees grown in abundance in the province; for example, food and desserts made from palmyra seeds and pith, and palmyra sap juice and sugar. Hand-woven products from sisal fibre (Agave angustifolia) are available in various forms and designs. These products and souvenirs are offered in town and around the Khao Wang area.

OTOP Products

Miniature Boats from Lucky Wood (เรือจำลองไม้มงคล) are made of wood from 5 kinds of lucky trees comprising mainly Siamese rosewood, jackfruit wood, and santol wood, following realistic models and structures but in miniature sizes. The products include Chinese junks, lighters, tugboats, trawlers, etc. and are listed among the OTOP products. INTERESTING ACTIVITIES

White-water Rafting

Rafting along Phetchaburi River (การล่องแก่งแม่น้ำเพชรบุรี) is gaining popularity among tourists who are adventure–lovers, as there are many exciting cataracts with difficulties between Level 3-5 along the 33-km. span of the Phetchaburi River. The rafting takes about 4-5 days, with an overnight in the forest.

The rafting route starts from the K.U. Camp to Kaeng Krachan National Park's headquarters and passes various rapids like Kaeng Khun Krawen which is one of the most challenging spots for rafters. Visitors who do not stay overnight may take the Pong Luek–Nam Oe route, which takes about 5 hours to finish. Along both sides of the rafting route are green and verdant forests with colourful wild flowers. A visit to the Karen village to learn about their lifestyle and dwelling places can be made on the way. To get to the rafting point at Pong Luek, a high-power vehicle will be needed to go through a poor laterite road, taking approximately 3 hours. For rafting, please contact Fuji Tour at Tel. 0 2918 6067-8, 0 2540 2971-2, or visit www.fujitours.co.th and Phet Rim Than at Tel. 0 3242 7220.

TRAVEL TIPS

Trekking

- Gather information on the places to be visited, so as to prepare the necessary equipment accordingly.
- Prepare handy and necessary trekking accessories; such as, a sleeping bag, tent, plastic mat, medicine, flashlight, pocket-knife, insect repellent, compass, etc.
- Study the season of nature; such as, flowers and migratory birds, and prepare binoculars, notebook, pencil, pen, map, etc.
- Study and check with the map before setting off. Choose the route along the mountain ridge which is easier to walk than the one in the valley and follow the official's suggestions strictly.

Camping

- Prepare a tent, sleeping bag, canvas, kitchen utensils; such as, a pot, gas range, oil lamp, dry food, drinking water, canvas shoes, hat, etc.
- Examine the direction of wind before putting up a tent. The tent must be at the beginning while a bonfire and a restroom at the end. The tent should be on a hill or high land, and on an open area beside a creek
- Sweep pieces of grass and leaves before putting up a tent since they may be a habitat of insects or reptiles.
- Find fuel from pieces of wood in the forest or on the beach, and put out the bonfire before going to sleep.
- Keep the area clean in its original state after camping.

Temple / Museum / Ancient Monument

- Study information about the place to be visited and contact a local speaker such as a monk or officer who can give you information.

- Dress politely and be composed. Take off your shoes before entering a religious building or area.
- Do not walk off the permitted path. Avoid touching an artefact or ancient monument, especially the decorative reliefs or paintings. Do not illegally excavate an archaological site or monument.
- Do not use flash when taking a photo, as it may damage the artefact or ancient monument.
